

New European Bauhaus Young talents on the future of building and living

Climate-neutral housing, building, transport – a joint task. The building sector offers great potential for the reduction of harmful greenhouse gases. With her New European Bauhaus initiative, European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen shows that sustainability, design and affordability go very well together with the implementation of the European “Green Deal”. This interdisciplinary think tank wants to initiate a broad social dialogue, especially with young talents, on nothing less than the future of building and living.

On the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the Bavarian Chamber of Architects, the Bavarian State Ministry of Housing, Building and Transport, the Representation of the Free State of Bavaria to the European Union and the Bavarian Chamber of Architects cordially invite you to this online event.

Together with our honoured guests we will virtually discuss key challenges: How can design, innovation and social participation be combined? What showcases already exist in Germany and Europe? How do we want to live together more sustainably, more healthily, more beautifully and more happily in the future?

Wednesday, 14 July 2021

11.00 a.m. - 12.15 p.m.

Online event

Bavarian Chamber of Architects

Bavarian State Ministry of Housing, Building and Transport

Representation of the Free State of Bavaria to the European Union

Please note:

This is a professional event with a selected audience.
Participation is only possible after prior registration.
The invitation is personal and not transferable.

New European Bauhaus

Young talents on the future of building and living

11.00 a.m. Welcome address

Helmut Schütz, Head of the Bavarian State Ministry of Housing, Building and Transport

Prof Dipl-Ing Clemens Richarz,
Architect, Member of the Executive Board of the Bavarian Chamber of Architects

Introduction

Iulia-Mirela Serban, Policy Assistant to the Director General for Regional and Urban Policy, European Commission

Anne Katrin Bohle, State Secretary at the Federal Ministry of the Interior, for Building and Community

Talk with

Andrea Heil, Spokeswoman Bavaria
for Architects for Future

Sophie Reiner, Architect,
Partner at studioeuropa

Moderation

Ingrid Simet, Head of the Department for Housing of the Bavarian State Ministry of Housing, Building and Transport

12.15 p.m. End of the event

Simultaneous interpretation German - English / English - German